PDX COIN JUNE 2021 UPDATE

We are pleased to provide a general update on the current status and overall progress for PDX Coin.

We have upgraded the underlying PDX Coin smart contract and have now deployed this to the Ethereum mainnet. The new smart contract renders the PDX genesis smart contract void and of no further effect. The new smart contract will enable the project to move forward on a firmer footing, and its creation was deemed necessary in order to gain listings for PDX Coin on certain cryptocurrency exchanges, as well as give more flexibility for our future growth. The new smart contract can be viewed at:

In line with the above, all previously issued PDX Coin tokens are no longer valid. All token holders of record will, over the course of the next several days, receive into their wallets a number of tokens equal to their existing token holdings, but generated from the new PDX smart contract. Token holders do not need to take any action other than that, if you do not already have a digital wallet address, you need to set up your Ethereum-enabled wallet immediately and send us the wallet address, in order that we can send your tokens to your address. Token holders also have the option, upon their receipt of the new PDX tokens, to send their “old” tokens back to the company’s wallet, in order to eliminate any future confusion as to the “old” and “new” tokens in their wallet. The token address to send old tokens to is:

If returning old tokens to the above wallet address, you should also email us at info@signalcapitalmanagement.co to advise, in order that we can track and confirm.

Earlier this year we applied to have PDX Coin listed on a major Asian cryptocurrency exchange, and on Coinbase, via its “Coinbase Asset Hub” accelerator program for all compliant crypto assets. The Asian exchange listing remains pending, and Coinbase advise that they are some 70% of the way through their review process, so far with no red flags indicated. We are also considering the possibility of listing PDX on the Uniswap DeFi exchange, among others, in the near future.

We have also elected to redomicile the PDX parent entity from Switzerland to Singapore, in order to achieve certain operating efficiencies, as well as domicile PDX in a jurisdiction that within our primary market region (Asia) and friendlier to the cryptocurrency space. Accordingly, all of the PDX intellectual property, business and other assets are being rehoused in PDX Global Pte. Ltd. (“PDX Global”).

Now that the world is emerging from the global Covid-19 pandemic and lockdowns, we have this week resumed our private token sales program to accredited investors and are beginning the preparation of the first of a series of private and public crowd sales, which will ultimately lead to our global public token sale. In tandem with this we have commenced the planning and implementation process to build a large and sustained social media community for PDX Coin, which is essential to support the upcoming exchange listings. Following the first crowd sale we will no longer send project updates by email, due to sheer number of token holders. Updates will however continue to be posted to our website at www.pdxcoin.io , and we encourage token holders and others to check the website regularly for updates.

Sincerely,

The PDX team
