

December 2, 2021

Dear PDX Community Member,

Please review the attached project update letter, and our latest press release.

1. PDX Coin commences trading on the leading European crypto exchange platform P2PB2B (<http://www.p2pb2b.io>) on December 15, 2021.
2. PDX Coin will commence trading on Asia's VinDAX exchange (www.vindax.com) from early January, 2022, provided we can clear some minor technology glitches on their platform that are extending the application process.
3. Following the P2PB2B and VinDAX listings we will revisit with Coinbase, and we will expect to arrange listings on the market-leading Gate.io and Kucoin exchanges. We have recently received many approaches from various exchanges to list with them, and are taking a very selective approach. A US exchange listing also remains a priority, in order that we can provide greater liquidity options to our many US token owners and gain deeper access to US capital pools.
4. PDX is from January 2022 engaging the leading Asia-based specialist crypto social media marketing firm ReBlock, to heavily lift our profile in social media (Reddit, Telegram, Twitter) and our trading volumes and price on the exchanges hosting PDX Coin. We have gotten to know this firm well over the past 18 months. Token holders are also encouraged to join our Telegram channel for frequent updates and news, at t.me/PDXToken . Token holders should also check our media page at <http://www.pdxcoin.io> for updates.

5. PDX has formally engaged Unified Infotech Ltd. (<http://www.unifiedinfotech.net>) as our technology partner to provide a 15-person development team to work with us to complete the development of our fully-functioning global mobile crypto-to-fiat payments wallet and virtual banking application. We will spend an estimated $2.5 million over the next 9 months completing and testing Version 1 of the application, ahead of launch. On an ongoing basis we will spend millions of dollars more continually developing more advanced versions, with added functionality.

6. PDX and its upcoming payments app are beginning to attract early strong attention in the payments sector, and in related professional media. We are currently formulating a full launch strategy, with well-known launch partners, including household names, across several industry verticals on the merchant / vendor side, and with leading portals to the mass consumer market in the crypto, financial services, and other verticals. We are also building relationships with banking organizations to support and underpin the rapid fiat settlement needs of our payments platform and to further build relationships with vendors and merchants, whilst also strengthening our plans to disrupt established entities in the global payments space.

7. To get a full understanding of the coming opportunities for PDX and its payments app in the Metaverse, we encourage you to read the articles in the below links, as well as our press release of December 2nd., 2021. We aren't just spending several million dollars to complete the development of a metaverse-compatible payments platform over the next 3 quarters, but we are also from 2022 going to actively seek out and enter into partnerships, investments and JVs to develop metaverse content, across gaming, sports, and gambling initially, all linked to our payments and virtual banking platform.
